

The BEAST and the BETHANY

Ebenezer Tweezer is a youthful 511-year-old, who keeps a beast in the attic. He feeds the beast all manner of things and in return the beast vomits out irresistible gifts for Ebenezer.

But the beast grows ever greedier. And it's bored with a diet of dusty statues and performing monkeys.

It's time for a new meal - a child-sized meal...

SPOT THE DIFFERENCE

Miss Fizzlewick is the director of the Institute for Gentlemanly Boys and Ladylike Ladies. The orphanage is a squat, ugly building with cracked windows and peeling paintwork.

Can you spot the 6 differences between these two images?

THE BIG FEAST

The beast rewards those who feed it. It closes its three black eyes and shuts its dribbling mouth. It starts to wriggle its blob of a body and makes a low humming noise as it moves from side to side. Then it vomits out whatever you've asked for.

Draw the present you'd like from the beast.
